Mid Semester Break

Make it work

- Familiarise yourself with your units, and include all the due dates for your assessment items in the semester planner.
- Work backwards from the due dates, and map out your plan of attack before starting research, writing, etc.
- In your weekly planner, mark out all your regular lectures and tutorials.
- Include all other regular commitments that you may have, such as work, study, and sleep.
- Block out study time for each of your units.
- Once you’ve got your semester and weekly planners in order, you’ll see how much time you have to play...
- Compare timetables with classmates and friends—why not catch up for coffee on campus at mutually available times?
