

Semester 1 planner 2013

Make it work

- familiarise yourself with your units, and include all the due dates for your assessment items in the semester planner
- work backwards from the due dates, and map out your plan of attack (when to start researching, writing, etc)
- in your weekly planner, mark out all your recurring lectures and tutorials
- include all other regular commitments that you may have outside of class
- block out study time for each of your units
- once you've got your semester and weekly planners in order, you'll see how much time you have to play...
- compare timetables with classmates and friends—why not catch up for coffee on campus at mutually available times!
